Kate Petley • Monoprints

Kate Petley has made several series of mono prints at Manneken Press. Her process begins with a hand-drawn or painted element from which a copper photogravure plate is etched. This plate becomes a repeatable matrix for a series of prints which she alters using shaped relief plates, blend-rolls and hand-drawn elements. All prints are published by and available exclusively from Manneken Press.

Kate Petley is an American abstract painter whose work addresses the subtleties of location and atmosphere, specifically of her home in the mountainous regions of Colorado. In her paintings and prints Petley conveys psychologically charged space using layered images with multiple references, color, vividly enhanced marks, and dramatic compositions. Petley's experience of location, where the urban environment edges up against the natural world, serves as the point of departure for her work. Collapsing the boundaries between sculpture, photography, and painting, Kate Petley reframes the history and meaning of the luminous surface. Her radiant surfaces contain experiential planes of color, light, and form. Manneken Press has published Kate Petley's monoprints since 2013.
